an armed police force if a good case can be made out detailed proposals as to the number of additional police, if any required, and of arms, with cost of the former, can be called for. The presence of a large military force, of itself will probably act as a deterrent of any pre-organised disturbances.

(5) If the principle is accepted that the Police are required to quell disturbances, my proposals are that the present Reserve be armed, trained & organised to meet any emergency on the same lines as an Armed Reserve in the Madras Presidency (vide Madras Police Manual* Vol I Chap. XLI.) The strength of the Reserve is 1 S.I. 4 H.C.'s & 58 P.C.'s armed with 21 carbines, which are issued for the use of the Treasury guard (5/16) & escorts (16/4). The men are not trained properly in the use of arms & do not musketry course. The ammunition supplied (I think in 1905) has never been fired. Needless to say half trained men in an Emergency are a source of danger. I propose that the whole of the Reserve be armed & perform a musketry course similar to that of the Madras Police

The men not employed on Treasury guard duty & escorts would then be available as an Armed Emergency force ready to turn out at a moments notice in an Emergency. I do not ask for any increase in the Constabulary, but to complete the organisation it is necessary that a European Inspector be in charge (he would also be responsible for the training of recruits & charge of the Stores) & one H.C. be provided for every ten men (the Madras standard). If the ~~ex~~ supply of arms & ammunition could be arranged separately, ~~that~~ I would like the additional Inspector & two H.C. Constables

(5) The D.S.P. may be asked to state what arms and ammunition he requires, by whom & how the training is to be done and what it will cost. Perhaps the proposed European Inspector will do the training?

Proposals for an additional European Inspector and 2 Head constables may be awaited.

Please see para 8 of rules overleaf. In para 5 of rules, the D.S.P proposed that the Imperial armed Reserve should be equipped on the same lines as that of Madras - In Madras Police Order No 614 - (vide extracts at the end of rules) it is laid down that when the Armed Reserve is mobilized, the Head Constables should be armed with Swords & the men with carbines with 10 rounds of ball cartridge ammunition. We have 4 H.C. & 58 Const. in the Reserve at present, with 21 Carbines - If, on the Madras plan, Head Constables are not to be armed with Carbines, but armed with swords instead, & swords can be obtained; but in 1915, the Govt of India said swords could not be supplied then - If they cannot be supplied even now, the H.Cs also may perhaps be given Carbines. On this basis, we may ask for 41 carbines.

In Madras, Police Orders don't refer to Sub Inspectors being armed - But P.O. 611 says that one Sergeant to 50 men will be attached to the reserve on mobilization. Part V.- Particular Branches of the Department and Village Police.

Chapter XLI:- Armed Reserves.

Armed Reserve

603. At each district head-quarters there shall be kept a body of armed men, called the Armed Reserve.

Uses

This force must be available to deal promptly with ordinary tumults and local disturbances.

Emergency forces.

604. A minimum force, to be kept ready for immediate action in an emergency, shall be laid down for each district and the Superintendent shall see that it is not allowed to fall below the prescribed strength without good cause.

Reserve Inspector.

605. The reserve shall be under the immediate control of an European Inspector.

Physique.

606. Endeavour should be made to secure men of physique above the average of the district, and if it is possible, without taking weedy men, to adhere to a minimum standard of height of five feet seven inches, this should be done.

Enlistment of Malayalis to be encouraged 606-A. The enlistment of Malayalis for Armed Reserves should be encouraged and every effort should be made to keep as low as possible the number of men belonging to the town in which the Armed Reserve is stationed.

Number of natives of town to be kept down.

Period of training of recruits

606-B. Recruit Constables enlisted for Armed Reserves shall be trained at a Central Recruits School for a period of six months.

Drill.

607. Kit inspection, followed by half an hour's drill, shall be held on Monday morning and an hour's drill on Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday mornings and on Friday afternoons. On Saturday morning fatigue duty shall be performed.

One route march a week is compulsory for all Armed Reserves. Swedish drill should be practised twice a week, and should be compulsory for all men under thirty-one years of age, discretion being left to the Superintendent to decide what men over this age should also practise these exercises.

Note. Physical drill will not be taught in the Reserves.

Ordinary duties of the Armed Reserve.

608. The Armed Reserve shall furnish guards at head-quarters, escorts, orderlies and parties for preserving order at festivals and large public assemblies and for maintaining the peace when a disturbance is anticipated.

The employment of the Reserve Police on festival bundhobust duty should, however, be restricted as much as possible. When it is found necessary to send a party of Reserve Police to a festival, they should be kept as a reserve apart from the festival to be used in case of emergency and should not be employed on bundhobust duty. There is no objection to the Emergency Force being drawn on for this purpose if others are no available.

Mobilization Orders.

609. (1). Standing orders for mobilization shall be drawn up.

(2). In these shall be detailed the standing duties of the Armed Reserve and the circle or stations which will supply men to fulfil each of these duties. A copy of the orders shall be hung up in each station concerned.

(3). Instructions on the following points shall be given in respect of the men to be sent in from the district:-

(i). the number of men of each rank to be sent;
(ii). How their work will be carried on in their absence;
(iii). to whom and where they should report themselves;
(iv). what their duties will be;
(v). what arms, if any, they should take with them
(vi). that full kits will be taken;

(4) It shall also be laid down that men will be passported direct to the place where they are to do duty.

Circles not to be unduly weakened.

610. Care should be taken, when drawing up the mobilization orders, not to unduly weaken the head-quarter town and taluk circles by with-drawing men from them.

Sergeants.

611. One Sergeant to fifty men shall be attached to the Reserve on mobilization. When necessary, Sergeants will be brought in from other duty, if available.

Formation of Reserve.

612. The ordinary formation of a mobilized Armed Reserve will be that of a company under the command of the Reserve Inspector, divided into half-companies, under the command of Sergeants, which will be further subdivided into sections of a convenient size, commanded by head constables.

Inspectors to be called in.

613. If Sergeants are not available, Inspectors must be called in as half company commanders. They will be under orders of the Reserve Inspector in all matters connected with the mobilization. Inspectors should be selected for special aptitude for such employment.

How to be armed.

614. When the Armed Reserve is mobilized to deal with a breach of the peace, the Head constables shall be armed with swords and the men with carbines and ten rounds of ball or buckshot ammunition, unless ordered to the contrary.

Mobilization of neighbouring Reserves.

615. In cases of immediate emergency, any Superintendent may call upon the Superintendent of one or several neighbouring districts to mobilize his or their Armed Reserves and may require all or part of those Reserves to proceed to his district.

Annual Mobilization.

616. All Reserves are to be mobilized once a year, at any time which the Superintendent may consider to be the most convenient. The Reserves are then to be drilled for fifteen days, both the Superintendent and the Subdivisional police officers being present at the drill and taking an active part in it. It is most important that officers should not permit themselves to become so rusty in their drill that they are unable efficiently to command their Reserve in the absence of the Reserve Inspector.

Superintendents are personally to supervise the organization of the mobilized Reserve and as a rule, they should remain at head-quarters so long as the mobilization continues.

Good Shooting badges.

617. Badges for good shooting will be awarded to the men according to the rules in the Drill Manual, section 124.

Supply of Revolvers and Ammunition

Sls. 4 & 22.

The Police are now in possession of 6 pistols and not 6 revolvers as stated in the d. U.C. One pistol was obtained from the Madras Arsenal in 1904 for the use of the Sub Inspector who escorts the treasure and the remaining 5 pistols were supplied in 1915 for the use of 3 Inspectors and 2 European Sergeants. The Dist. Supt. of Police now says that these arms are old and unserviceable and requests that they may be exchanged for new hatton Webleys - ~~for~~ He also asks for the supply of two more Webleys (one for the Ry. Bureau Sergeant and the other for the Hackney Carriage Inspector) + 537 rounds of ammunition.

S. 129

In 1918 the Govt. of India were requested to supply one Enfield pistol and 24 rounds of Ammunition for the use of the European Sergeant at the Bangalore City Railway Station but the request was not complied with as no Revolvers were available then and as all those obtainable from England were required for issue to the Army.

S. 130

As regards the Supply of a Revolver to the Hackney Carriage Inspector, it is not known whether Hackney Carriage Inspectors in Madras are provided with fire arms. The necessity for providing him with a fire arm is not clearly explained. In this connection attention is invited to the instructions contained in Home Deptt. Resolution No. 362-C-378 C. dy the 21st Nov. 1914, regarding Supply of arms to the Police.

In the Madras Presidency the Railway Carriage Staff forms a part of the police force Neither the draft to the D.S.P need not perhaps issue.

In 1914 when we asked for 5 Enfield pistols we also asked for "ammunition on the authorised scale" The G of I allowed 24 rounds for each weapon. We may ask for this quantity now also. Ammunition can easily be replaced by returning empty cases to the Arsenal.

The supply among other articles of a revolver to him was approved at Sl. 27 of 28 / 2614/04. Under para 5 of the Govt of India letter at Sl. 11a / 342/1914, the previous sanction of the Govt of India is necessary to any addition to the arms in the hands of the police. The pistol to be supplied to the Jemadar is an addition to the arms now in charge. The Arsenal may not supply the weapon without the sanction of the Govt of India who may therefore be addressed. The D.S.P.'s office has since stated that (21) the Jemadars of Reserve Police in the Madras Presidency are not armed with revolvers. It is probable that the Govt. of India may not sanction the supply of the weapon to the Jemadar in the Station. Jemadars in Madras wear swords & sword belts. vide page 41 of the Madras Police orders, Vol II. There seems to be no necessity for different treatment here. The orders at ps. 27+28 / 261 A/04 may be amended The D.S.P. may be asked to revise the indent.

Before doing anything (22) the D.S.P. may be informed of what is believed to be the practice in Madras and asked whether he considers that the Jemadar here should be treated differently and if so why.

Yes; certainly (23)
He may have some reason for wanting to give this man a revolver.

(25) My dear Dawson,

Please refer to the indent forwarded with your S.194 letter No.1990/G., dated the 22nd August 1924. It is believed that the Jemadars of Reserve Police in the Madras Presidency are supplied only with swords and not revolvers. Is there any reason why the Jemadar here should be treated differently ?

Sir,

S.102 Adverting to the last sentence of your letter No. 2657 dated 20th April 1914, I have the honor to enquire whether the policy therein laid down viz that "in a Military Station like Bangalore armed Police are hardly required for quelling disturbances", is to be considered to hold good to-day.

2. I need hardly say that I consider such a policy untenable and opposed to that in force in other parts of India. In my experience I have always understood it to be the duty of the Police to maintain law & order and to quell local disturbances and that the Military should only be called in as a last resort when the civil power has failed. Apart from this, there have, I believe, been, occasions which I presume are likely to recur, when Bangalore has been practically denuded of troops; it is on such occasions that the presence of an adequate Police force is essential. Apart from circumstances arising out of the present economic and political state of the country, there are a variety of occasions when armed Police may be necessary (e.g.) factious riots, religious disputes etc, which are frequently prevented from developing into open disorder by the simple expedient of keeping a small force of armed Police ready in the threatened locality to supplement the ordinary Police. On such occasions the military would not be called in as a preventive measure but only after an actual disturbance had occurred. Further as there is no particular military force told off to meet such contingencies, it would take probably several hours before the military could turn out; in the meantime the unarmed Police might have been cut off and overpowered in the Bazaars and a more serious situation would have to be met.

3. I request a definite ruling on the point, as at present there is no force of armed Police in the Station adequate to deal with disturbances. The total number of arms(M.H.Carbines) on charge of the Reserve is only 21, which are intended for the needs of the Treasury Guard (6) and escorts (15).

Dated Bangalore, 14th July 1920

SIR,

I have the honour to address you on the subject of the arming of the Police Reserve quartered at the Civil & Military Station, Bangalore. The strength of the Reserve is 1 Sub-Inspector, 4 Head Constables, and 58 Police Constables. The armament provided for the force consists of 21 carbines (Smooth Bore Breech Loading weapon of the Martini Henri pattern). Of these, 5 carbines are assigned to the Treasury Guard and 16 are reserved for the use of men escorting treasure. 41 in addition to these would be required ~~fully~~ to arm the rank and file.

2. The question of arming the Police Reserve was raised 6 years ago by the authorities of the Civil and Military Station but was shelved for the time being, the then Resident being of the opinion that an armed Police Force was unnecessary in a large military station like Bangalore. It is doubtful whether this view of the position is sustainable now. The policy at present in favour is I believe that troops should only be called in in the last resort when the situation has passed beyond the control of the civil authorities. It is recognised that the military

military authorities cannot be expected to furnish troops in aid of the civil power except in an emergency; while apart from this the employment of troops unnecessarily may lead to avoidable collisions between crowds of demonstrators and the military. Situations, however, frequently arise in which armed force is required in order to control such violence or to prevent an outbreak of disorder and a necessary corollary of the policy indicated above is that an armed Police Force should be available in important centres where there is a large population. Riots frequently occur unexpectedly in large towns and on such occasions an armed Police Force is a more suitable instrument, if available, than troops. For one thing the Police have more experience of dealing with crowds: for another it often takes a considerable time to get troops on the scene whereas the Police would be almost immediately available. It may of course be argued that the population of Bangalore is quiet and law abiding and there is very little reason to anticipate that a show of force might be necessary to prevent disorder. The argument might have ~~led~~ had some point in 1914. In these days of acute political agitation and its concomitants, strikes, hartals, disorderly meetings, intimidation and so forth it would be unsafe to act on it. The Muhammadan community in Bangalore Civil and Military Station is roughly 30,000, with 10,000 more in Bangalore City. They have been brought into the orbit of the Khilafat movement and to some extent their leaders follow the methods of the central organisation. Hartals are observed and intimidation is practised on those who refuse to follow the dictates of the extremist element. Adequate protection can only be furnished to the loyal section of the population if there is an armed Police Force at the disposal of the authorities. These considerations furnish, I venture to think, adequate ground for the proposal I have put forward. It may be mentioned that apart from political agitation disorders do occur at times in Bangalore. For example last year there was very serious rioting on 2 successive days between a group of Pariahs and some sepoys of the Sappers and Miners on the one side and some local Muhammadans on the other in which 2 shops were burnt and a mosque damaged. There was also a serious riot at the Railway Station in which recruits from an unwieldy depot were mainly involved. These cases may prove were perhaps exceptional but that the theory that rioting and ~~or~~ disorders need not be anticipated in Bangalore cannot be adopted with safety.

3. In the circumstances described I trust the Government of India will sanction the issue of the arms required to equip the - - Reserve Police. We shall require 41 carbines with an equal number of bayonets. The ammunition which dates, I believe, from 1905 should be replaced. Some training will be necessary on the lines followed in Madras. At present the Reserve Police here are practically untrained and very few are acquainted with the elements of musketry.

I have the honour to be,

Sir,

SIR,

S.135 With reference to your No.9036/261/1904 dated 14-10-20, I have the honor to state that M.H.Rifles with bayonets and Scabbards will meet requirements. As Muskets .476 bore, with which the Police are usually armed, are only bored out M.H.Rifles, I should have thought it would have been possible for an Arsenal to convert a sufficient number of M.H.Rifles into Smooth bores to supply our needs. If, however, this is not possible, arrangements may be made for the supply of M.H.Rifles with bayonets and scabbards.

SIR,

I have the honour to inform you that the Enfield Revolvers now in use in the Divisions and in the Reserve which were obtained from the Madras Arsenal in 1915 are old and unserviceable.

I request that sanction may be accorded to return these Enfield Revolvers, six in number, to the Madras Arsenal and to exchange them for new pattern Webleys.

Sanction is also requested for the supply of 2 more Webleys, one for the Railway Division Sergeant, and another to be supplied to the Hackney Carriage Inspector, as the Hackney Carriage Staff are to become Police in the near future and the Hackney Carriage Inspector will become a Police Sergeant and also, for the supply of ammunition on the following scale:— Service- 48 rounds per weapon, practice 30 rounds per weapon. This will allow of regular practice being held and is on the Madras Scale. A fresh supply of 537 r will be required as 87 are at present on hand. Arrangements may be made with the Arsenal for the future supplies

Subject.

Supply of arms and ammunition to the Police Force of the Civil & Military Station, Bangalore.

Sir,

I have the honour to request that orders may be issued to the Madras Arsenal for the supply of 7 new pattern Webley Pistols Mark VI and 456 rounds of ammunition required for the use of the Police Force of the Civil & Military Station, Bangalore.

2. The Police are now in possession of 6 pistols - one was obtained in 1904 for the use of the Sub Inspector who escorts treasure, while the remaining 5 were issued in 1915 for the use of 3 Inspectors and 2 European Sergeants. Sanction to the supply of these arms was conveyed in telegram No.3209-I.A., dated the 29th August 1904 from the Foreign Department and letter No.79-I.A. dated the 26th January 1915 from the Foreign and Political Department. The District Superintendent of Police now reports that these arms are old and unserviceable. I would accordingly request that the supply of 6 new pattern Webleys Mark VI may be sanctioned to replace them.

S. 107 261-04

3. In 1918 application was made for the supply of one enfield pistol and 24 rounds of ammunition for the use of the European sergeant at the Bangalore City Railway Station but the request was not complied with owing to army requirements absorbing all revolvers obtainable from England: vide your memorandum No.

S. 130
2/1-1904

No.3459-I.B. dated the 26th October 1918. I would now request that the European Sergeant at the City Railway Station may be supplied with a Webly pistol, Mark VI.

4. As regards the supply of ammunition the indent is based on the scale of ammunition sanctioned by the Government of Madras i.e. service 48 rounds per weapon and practice 30 rounds per weapon. For 7 Webleys 546 rounds of ammunition will be required. Of these 87 rounds are on hand and the balance namely 459 or 456 which is a multiple of complete packets of 12, will be required.

Sir,

SUBJECT:- Stock of component parts for local repair of rifles.

The Reserve (Armed Force) in the C & M Station Bangalore is at present without component parts of small arms, such as are, supplied to District Reserves in the Madras Presidency by the Ordnance Department.

I addressed the District Superintendent of Police, Godaveri District for a detailed list of the stock of component parts for local repair of rifles which is allowed him by the Madras Arsenal and enclose a copy of his reply for favour of information.

I request that the Madras Arsenal may be addressed to supply our station Reserve with a similar stock of component parts of arms in order that the repairs to our rifles here may be speedily attended to by the local armourer.

The following component parts are urgently required to replace parts already unserviceable:-
